Belmont Charter School Project: As a Community Outreach Project, students from the Belmont Charter School, located in the former Hallahan High School, cleaned up the park benches on the Monday and Tuesday before Thanksgiving. They did a great job and plan to come back in the spring.

Park Maintenance: As it is taking a while for Parks & Recreation to replace a missing park bench, we may consider paying for a new bench ourselves. Also, we plan to replace the plastic trash can liners as the rats have chewed through the bottom of the plastic to get to discarded food. We will replace the 14 plastic trash cans with metal cans at a cost of about $45 each. Because the city has identified the park as having a rat problem, they make monthly visits to check on the rats.

New Tree Plans: Nancy van Arkel and Joe Walsh reviewed the current inventory of trees and identified a few dying trees which may need to be replaced: a Cherry tree on 19th Street side of park, and an American Dogwood and a Pine Tree on the park's southside. They are considering the following new trees: a White Oak, Crepe Myrtle, and a Black Tupelo. Good News: The new trees that were planted this past year have all survived.

Website News: Check out Joe Walsh's latest history articles on the water supply and the outflow in the Baldwin Park neighborhood including history, current costs, and why you should not buy bottled water. See these links:
