Cordially invite you to the dedication of an official State Historical Marker
Commemorating Baldwin Locomotive Works, 1835 – 1956

In 1835 Matthias Baldwin built Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia’s Bush Hill. Expanding from its original site at Broad & Hamilton Streets to encompass 39 buildings covering 17 acres, it became the leading manufacturer of steam locomotives for the U.S. and the world. This area was transformed from a rural estate into one of the City’s first factory neighborhoods. At its peak in 1907, Baldwin employed over 18,000 men. Production ceased in 1956.

Philly's 19th C. "Silicon Valley" is recognized at Marker ceremony on Sept. 26

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. – The Baldwin Locomotive Works once helped give Philadelphia the name, "Workshop of the World." Now, through the efforts of Friends of Franklintown Park, a Pa. State historic marker will be dedicated on Saturday, Sept. 26 at 2 pm at the corner of 19th and Hamilton, within site of the dozens of factories that helped build over 75,000 Baldwin locomotives. The Silicon Valley of its day, this factory employed 18,000 workers, who lived in surrounding ethnic neighborhoods. The public is invited. Railroad songs will be played. Refreshments will be served.

This is first time the industrial history of the now trendy Art Museum is being recognized. "Few residents realize that they live in what was the Silicon Valley of a century ago," says Sandra Owen, who helped get the marker from the state. "Mathias Baldwin was one of the great industrialists of his time. Although there's a statue on the north side of City Hall, hardly anyone knows about his contributions to industry and the city. We hope the marker will help to rectify that," Owens said.

Remarks at the ceremony will be given by Janet S. Klein, Pa. State Historical Commission, City Planning Commissioner Alan Greenberger, Mark Focht, Executive Director of Fairmount Park, and Dennis Boylan and Mark Flood, officers of the Logan Square Neighborhood Association, which help fund the project.

Mel Seligsohn, co-chair of the Friends group, says that the marker is part of an effort to raise public awareness of the area and Philadelphia's industrial history. For further information contact:

HISTORICAL MARKER NOMINATION FORM
This form is available for downloading online at www.phmc.state.pa.us.

Review Policies for Approval, and then complete this form. Please type or print, using font size no smaller than 10 point.

1. State name of person (include birth and death dates), event, or site to be commemorated.

Baldwin Locomotive Works, 1835 - 1951

2. Please use the space below to provide a historical overview and specify fully the historical significance of the person, event, or site. Be sure to explain why this marker will have meaning for people from the whole state or country, not just from your own community. If of broader significance, be sure to describe the subject’s Pennsylvania connection. Be concise. Do not exceed the space provided.

In 1835 Matthias Baldwin built Baldwin Locomotive Works in Philadelphia’s Bush Hill section, now known as Franklintown. The Works soon expanded from its original location at Broad and Hamilton Streets to encompass 39 buildings covering 17 acres. Bush Hill was transformed from a bucolic rural estate into one of Philadelphia’s first factory neighborhoods where workers lived and walked to their jobs every day.

Innovative and forward looking, Baldwin Locomotive became a leader in the American Industrial Revolution. At its peak in 1907, Baldwin Locomotive was the largest employer in the Philadelphia region, providing work for 19,000 men who produced 3,000 locomotives a year. Over time, it became the largest locomotive builder in the U.S., if not the world, turning out a total of 100,000 engines in hundreds of customized designs from 4-ton electrics to 150-ton steamers.

Baldwin locomotives were sold nationwide and helped open the American west. Worldwide Baldwin engines ran in England, France, India, Haiti, Japan, Egypt, Palestine, and South America.

By 1928 Baldwin had outgrown its urban site in Bush Hill. After 93 years all Philadelphia shops were closed and the firm relocated to Eddystone, Pennsylvania. Slow to convert from steam to diesel and in financial trouble, Baldwin merged with Lima-Hamilton engine builders in 1951. In 1954 most of Baldwin’s records were destroyed by management. Production ceased in 1956.
3. Please provide a draft of the text for the marker. (Note: A final text will be written in collaboration with PHMC staff.)

6. Describe the suggested marker site. Are there any surviving features, built or topographical, that relate to the proposed commemoration? (While survival of such features is not a determining factor in the approval of markers, a suggested marker should be close enough to the site to take advantage of any features that do survive. It should also be located so as to maximize accessibility to the public.) If possible, please attach a photograph.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works was a sprawling multi-site complex of factories and semi-independent shops that ran from Broad and Spring Garden Streets to 28th and Pennsylvania Avenue. No buildings remain.

To maximize the marker’s accessibility to the public, we suggest it stand on 19th Street between Hamilton & Callowhill Streets on the east side of the street next to Franklintown Park.

7. Provide information on suggested marker site:

General Instructions

Section references are to the Internal Revenue Code unless otherwise noted.

Future developments. The IRS has created a page on IRS.gov for information about Form W-9, at www.irs.gov/individualinformation. Information about any future developments affecting Form W-9 (such as legislation enacted after we release it) will be posted on that page.

Purpose of Form

A person who is required to file an information return with the IRS must obtain your correct taxpayer identification number (TIN) to report, for example, income paid to you, payments made to you in settlement of payment card and third party network transactions, real estate transactions, mortgage interest you paid, acquisition or abandonment of secured property, cancellation of debt, contributions to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA), and, when applicable, to:

1. Certify that the TIN you are giving is correct (or you are waiting for a number to be issued to you), and

2. Certify that you are not subject to backup withholding, or

3. Claim exemption from backup withholding if you are a U.S. exempt payee. If applicable, you are also certifying that as a U.S. person, your allocable share of any partnership income from a U.S. trade or business is not subject to the withholding tax on foreign partners' share of effectively connected income, and

4. Certify that FATCA code(s) entered on this form (if any) indicating that you are exempt from the FATCA reporting, is correct.

Note. If you are a U.S. person and a requester gives you a form other than Form W-9 to request your TIN, you must use the requester's form if it is substantially similar to this Form W-9.

Definition of a U.S. person. For federal tax purposes, you are considered a U.S. person if you are:

- An individual who is a U.S. citizen or U.S. resident alien,
- A partnership, corporation, company, or association created or organized in the United States, or under the laws of the United States,
- An estate (other than a foreign estate), or
- A domestic trust (as defined in Sections 301.7701-7).

Special rules for partnerships. Partnerships that conduct a trade or business in the United States are generally required to pay a withholding tax under section 1446 on any foreign partners' share of effectively connected taxable income from such business. Further, in certain cases where a Form W-9 has not been received, the rules under section 1446 require a partnership to presume that a partner is a foreign person, and pay the section 1446 withholding tax. Therefore, if you are a U.S. person that is a partner in a partnership conducting a trade or business in the United States, provide Form W-9 to the partnership to establish your U.S. status and avoid section 1446 withholding on your share of partnership income.

Dear Applicant:

We are pleased to inform you that upon review of your application for tax exempt status we have determined that you are exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Contributions to you are deductible under section 170 of the Code. You are also qualified to receive tax deductible bequests, devises, transfers or gifts under section 2055, 2106 or 2522 of the Code. Because this letter could help resolve any questions regarding your exempt status, you should keep it in your permanent records.

Organizations exempt under section 501(c)(3) of the Code are further classified as either public charities or private foundations. We determined that you are a public charity under the Code section(s) listed in the heading of this letter.

Please see enclosed Publication 4221-FC, Compliance Guide for 501(c)(3) Public Charities, for some helpful information about your responsibilities as an exempt organization.
